EXORCISM

(UEPOTARA)

THE various classes of kamui were described in Chapters I and II, and it was noted that though the 'important' (pase) kamui are generally beneficent, yet they are apt to resent disrespect or neglect of offerings. Reverence is necessary in soliciting their help; and accident, disease or other misfortune may befall those who neglect them, or who neglect a custom or infringe a taboo. Thus, serious illness is usually attributed to the action of some kamui, or to possession by evil spirits, when the victim becomes 'tied up'.

When there is ordinary sickness the Ainu have a choice of many herbs, some reputed to heal particular diseases and a few magically efficacious against several. But where there is serious illness, whether of mind or body, the older folk are quick to suspect the action of a cantankerous or malignant spirit.[1] Purification is necessary for the expulsion of such spirits, or their influence, from humans, places or things. Epiru, the general word for purification, is not used for human beings; for them ukakik (striking upon) or kashikik (striking from above downwards) are the words in general use; these terms are never used for places or things.

[1] The causes of disease were believed to be as follows:
(a) The work of an evil deity (wen kamui) or a stubborn deity (nitue kamui).
(b) The influence of the evil spirits of sterile women (whether living or dead was not ascertained).
(c) Retribution for the sinful acts of ancestors.
(d) The action of symbiotic worms in the abdomen.
(e) The result of curses by someone with a grudge against the sufferer.
(f) Possession by some spirit.—H.W.
